Remarks

Discover a treasure of historical significance constructed in 1852 by John H. Strous. This freestanding all-brick property has stood witness to the ebb and flow of time, having embraced a diverse array of stories, and carrying a rich history that has seen many uses over the years. A canvas of endless potential presents an opportunity for creative thoughts.

As a contributing building within the Savannah National Historic Landmark District, 11 Habersham Street can qualify for significant federal and state rehabilitation tax incentives for income-producing, owner-occupied, or mixed-use scenarios; see graphic for potential preservation tax credits.

Highlights include solid Philadelphia pressed brick construction, original hardwood floors, oversized windows, high ceilings, a side garden, and a courtyard in which off-street parking could be incorporated. The expansive basement with 8' ceilings and potential access from three different stairways is a playground for your ideas. Prime location just steps to Warren Square, one-half block from Bay Street, and close to all of downtown Savannah.
